SOME INTERESTING FACTS CONCERN-ING THE LIFE OF NEW ENGLAND PURITANS immediately after the Revolution are related by Arthur Fain in "Puritan's Progress," research into old records, newspapers, letters and other documents.

There were few roads and no good ones, so most journeys were made on horseback. The first systematic stage route between New York and Boston began operation in 1793, the trip taking from eight to ten days. Relatives living only ten miles apart sometimes visited one another only once or twice a year.

There were no hospitals or training nurses, no anesthetics, no vaccination against smallpox, which caused countless deaths. The horrible was still used as a timepiece, frees were lit with flint and steel.
If teeth were given any attention it was by rubbing ginger or applied with a wooden stick.

While gambling with cards and lotteries prevailed generally, theatrical performances were unlawful, and so was kissing on Sunday.
Pen by husband and wife. An official made his rounds on Sundays to see that everyone went to church. In the few schools which existed, the Bible was the principal textbook. Harvard students had to get up for chapel at six, and retired when the curfew rang at nine. They had to call at the kitchen for their bread and milk, which was eaten in their rooms, in which no lights were allowed.

Women usually married young and died young, the average family being nine or ten, with twenty or more children not unusual, but about half of them died before maturity. And considering the hard conditions under which they would have been forced to live, those who died early may have been lucky at that.

CURSE OF NARCOTICS

In a recent address Captain Richmond P. Hobson declared that the traffic in narcotics is a cancer which has been eating at the vital organs of the world for 200 years, and that the power of American gangsters and racketeers is based upon it, rather than upon liquor.

He asserted that most of the bandits and gunmen who rob and kill are dope addicts who are controlled, led and sent by those higher up. He believes the hope of the world lies in educating the youth to the horrors of the "living death" of the dope fiend. Tracing the steps by which the drug habit is formed, Captain Hobson told of the physical and mental agony suffering by those who become addicts.
When the habit is confirmed the addict will resort to any means whatever to obtain his daily dose of drugs, and thus becomes a prey for those who would use him for their evil purposes.

For several years Captain Hobson, Spanish-American war hero of Merrime, has devoted himself to fighting the drug traffic and to educating the public to its dangers, and is president of the Narcotic Defense Foundation, with headquarters in New York.

ZION CHAPEL P-T-A.

The patrons of Zion Chapel school met Thursday, November 10, for the purpose of organizing a P-T-A. The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. W. J. Brown; first vice-president, Miss Mandy Clark; second vice-president, Mrs.
Jesse Fuller; secretary and treasurer, Miss Lucille Brown. Program committee: Mrs. Tom Jacobs, Mrs.
Jesse Fuller, Mrs. Maud Johnson, Wills, Mrs. Trave Smith, Mrs. Jim Jackson, Mrs. John Kendrick.

There were about fifty patrons present. Preceding the organization of the P-T-A, an Armistice Day program was given by the patrons of the school.

CITY OF FIVE FLAGS

The distinction of having been under five different flags belongs to Mobile, Ala. In fact, it has changed flags seven times, as a brief account of its strange record will show.

Founded by d'Alberville in 1702, Mobile was in French possession until 1763, when it passed to England by the Treaty of Paris. It was taken by Spain in 1789, captured by the British in 1815, taken by the English in the same year, and restored to the United States by the Treaty of Ghent in 1815. It then the Stars and Bars of the Confederacy during the Civil War, after which it again came under the Stars and Stripes.

The Battle of Mobile Bay, August 5, 1864, in which Admiral Farragut defeated the Confederate fleet, was the last battle of the war fought in the Gulf of Mexico. The battle was a decisive victory for the Union, and the destruction of the Alabama, the last of the Confederate ironclads, was a major blow to the South.

Mobile was in serious financial difficulties during reconstruction days and lost its charter in 1876, when a commission was established to liquidate its debt of two and a half million dollars. A new charter was obtained in 1886. It recent years the city has made great progress and in 1930 had a population of 68,202.

Pensacola, Fla., has also been under five flags, its history in that respect closely paralleling that of Mobile.

STRAY CATS AND DOGS

The zeal of those who stress the importance of kindness to animals may sometimes appear to be a manifestation of sentimentality, but there is generally behind it a sincere and laudable impulse.

While it may be argued that the sympathy and effort expended on unfortunate animals might better be exerted in behalf of human beings, the fact is that those who treat horses, cats and dogs with human consideration are more likely to exhibit a similar attitude toward their fellowmen.

A New York woman's organization reports that during the year it found homes for 607 homeless dogs and 549 stray cats, while 88 dogs and 10 cats were turned over to their owners through identifying tags on collars. Bronze medals were presented to two men who saved a dog at considerable risk to themselves.

An important work of such an organization is the humane education of children, many if not most of whom have an apparent tendency to make life miserable for helpless animals, particularly those not their own. In some cases the mistreatment of animals is merely the result of thoughtlessness and may be checked by kindly administration, in others there appears to be a tendency toward human cruelty, which sterner measures are necessary to repress.

The teaching of kindness to animals should have a place in the training of every child and it can be taught better by personal example than in any other way. To befriend a stray cat or dog is to teach a lesson in humanity to the child who observes the act. And such lessons are worth while.

A $120,000 BIBLE

An idea of the amazing amount of money represented by literary and art treasures brought to America by the late Mrs. Morgan may be suggested by the price of $120, 000 paid by an American collector for a Gutenberg Bible, printed at Mainz, Germany, on the world's first printing press.

This is said to be the highest price ever paid for a single book, but within a few years it may bring a great deal more. Of course, the value of such treasures is not measured by the price paid for them, but by the interest they excite in the public mind.

When J. P. Morgan, the elderliest in 1913, his art treasures were valued at close to $100,000,000.
His manuscript collection included the originals of nine novels by Sir Walter Scott, Dickens' "The Christmas Carol," Thackeray's "Vanity Fair," and many works by Keats, Poe, Whittier, Longfellow and others.

A single purchase of 700 books by Mr. Morgan in 1902 cost him a million and a quarter dollars.

The late Henry Huntington left a collection for which he had paid about twenty millions. The finest collection of Shakespeare's works in existence is in the Folger library in Brooklyn.

Europeans have long deplored the acquisition of their libraries and art treasures by Americans, but so long as they are highly prized and continue to come into our shores.

RED SQUILL KILLS RATS

Auburn, Ala.—W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist at Auburn, is outspoken and very active in his war on rats, which can be killed, he said, at a low cost by using red squill. One package of red squill, which costs less than a bushel of corn, will save several barrels of feed. Cooperation among farmers in using it on a community basis is more effective.

CANNING MEAT AT HOME

Monroeville, Ala.—Monroe County citizens have turned their attention to meat canning. They have surplus animals killed for the market. Mrs. M. L. Lusk, Garrett, home demonstration agent, has given instructions and demonstrations in the canning of beef, pork and chickens are included.

One day, as Jesus walked in a

SIXTY DISASTERS IN 1932 ADD TO RELIEF PROBLEMS

Red Cross Spends $2,760,000 to Help Victims of Catastrophes

In a year of great misfortune caused by economic depression, in which the American Red Cross assumed heavy burdens of relief for the unemployed, the organization also responded to emergency needs in 60 disasters in the United States and its insular possessions.

During the twelve months ending June 30, 1932, the Red Cross gave aid to 76,000 families totaling 332, 000 individuals, with expenditures of $2,760,736. These people were in distress because of drought, flood, forest fire, tornado, or starvation, mine explosion or other similar great disaster.

As John walked down from the library, across the broad steps, Josephine, who had been waiting for him, saw him. He went southward along the Avenue, strolling casually, swinging a cane, hardly looking at any one. Josephine crossed over and walked a short distance behind him. Several acquaintances saw her, she looked rather grim. He walked easily, he had an air about him for the first time the humor of the situation dawned upon Josephine. She almost laughed, she saw a certain of her ability, but he would have to pay her for this pay her well, and, of course, he would never know what he was making up to.
